

Will Rampe is a Communications Associate at the Institute for Energy Research (IER). In his role, Will assists with IER's communications and media activities. Before working at IER, Will attended Hamilton College where he received his bachelor's in government and interned in media-related roles with the Cato Institute and Reason Magazine.